Claus Seeks Release of Employee

In an effort to maintain production schedules for the 2003 season, Santa Claus has asked NASA to release the ELF that astronaut Dave Brown captured on the current Space Shuttle mission. "There is no way I can meet demand for the upcoming season without even one of my employees" said Mr. Claus.

When asked about Mr. Claus' request, NASA Public Affairs Officer Rob Navias stated that NASA had no comment at this time. An unofficial NASA source did say that the captured pixie was presenting the on-board crew with some difficulties. It is rumored that unexplained free water in the Orbiter cabin was produced by the captured ELF, also known as "the Phantom Leaker".

Mr. Claus currently runs a facility in the North Pole where toys are produced at cut rate. The International Labor Relations Boards is investigating potential unfair labor practices at the Claus workshop.

Things heard from folks who've only worked ISS flights:

- "What, no docking?"
- "Payloads, who's payloads?"
- "Man, Prop gets cranky when he doesn't have a reboost to work on!"
- "Sixteen days, the shuttle cant stay up there that long!"
- "I didn't realize Columbia still flew!"
- "Wow, it seems like we are replanning all of the stinking time!"
- "Shouldn't we coordinate this with HSG?"
- "No EVA, PDRS or Rendezvous Officers? There is an upside to this after all!"
- "Double the comedy, twice the lameness!"
- "Science, we don't need no stinking science!"

You can tell Orbit 4 needs a day off by the things heard during the AFD Conference:

1. FDO has a weight problem.
2. Getting a straight answer out of Prop is impossible – “yes, no, maybe.”
3. MMACS is losing his grip on which iteration of the IFM we are on.
4. PAO is just hanging out until Blue FD10.
5. GC is getting his network and building comments mixed up.
6. INCO is saying crazy things about OARE.
7. GNC is running out of things to say during AFD.
8. DPS’s tongue needs a break from all the talking he is doing.
9. Surgeon is talking about dispensing some heavy-duty prescription drugs.
10. EGIL states that he needs to be cycled every 48 hours.
11. EECOM is mumbling something about EOM+4.
12. FD is making non-binding promises.
13. CAPCOM sounded different.
14. And PLO has 24 clicks in his knob.

Disclaimer: All though it must be pointed out that the statement above being printed on this page clearly violates the concept of making this a blank page for the simple reason that having printed this statement on this page negates the fact that it is in fact a blank page which in truth it is not blank. However, if one stood by government publication standards and maintained the page to be blank there would be a particular level of confusion with having a purely blank page with no indication on whether the page was intended to be blank or not blank. This would cause some flight controllers to question if they had received the entire execute package since a blank page might indicate that there was once material on this page and somehow REPRO skipped a page. Needless to say an FAO tiger team was made to discuss and argue about this possible dilemma at great lengths and pain and it was decided that the above statement be placed on all blank pages to indicate the blank page was left blank (even though it was really not blank at all as one can clearly see).

FAO is therefore held completely blameless for anyone who may suffer severe mental trauma caused by having a blank page containing a statement to the fact that the page is in fact quite blank regardless of what your eyes are telling your brain and that the publisher fully intended for the blank pages to be blank for pagination reasons.

With all due seriousness: Your blankity blank Orbit 1 FAO,

Coming Soon to FOX,
MCC meets reality television with the debut of...
"Joe FCR"

In Joe FCR, 25 women are chosen from all over America and whisked away to the romantic and picturesque Johnson Space Center in Houston, Texas. Once they arrive at this fairytale location, they all have the chance to win the heart of Joe FCR. What these women don't know is that Joe is not a Front Room Certified Flight Controller...He is, in fact, just an underpaid MPSR guy. So the question is whether these women are looking for love, or just a chance at fame on NASA TV?

Appendix Comedy

The following was submitted by the FREESTAR folks.

The Hitchhiker Ops Directors, upon submitting their final Execute Package inputs, were heard shouting choruses of hallelujahs. The following song was also heard in the hallways outside the FREESTAR POCC.

(To the tune of 100 Bottles of Beer on the Wall)
32 replan inputs due to JEDI, 32 replan inputs due
When those inputs got uplinked, 31 replan inputs due to JEDI
31 replan inputs due to JEDI, 31 replan inputs due
When those inputs got uplinked...

Of course the beer is reserved for the post-flight party.

HLS Ode to the FAB-7

The flight's almost over, the blood work's complete,
Just a few more samples to freeze.
Infusions are done, all tracers are in,
In the end, PhAB-4 was a breeze.

We stuck you with needles, we made you "go" in a bag,
We collected every sample we could.
The EORF is full, the PIs are glad,
The bears think the data look good.

Red draws Blue, Blue draws Red.
FAB-7 got the job done.
Dual shift ops, round the clock and the Earth,
Those PhAB-4 sessions were fun!!!

Someone once said, "Good things come to an end,"
And soon back home you will be.
Collections are through, all thanks to you!
P.S. - We'll see you at K S C!
